

Friendship
by Augustine Kelly Aged 10

A friend is a piano playing softly in the night, and even if you get into a fight, everything turns out all right.

When you play with a friend, there's an explosion of happiness round every bend,
And when things get dense, they will always remind you that you have a friend.

Sometimes friendship is an annoying itch that won't go away, But sometimes a warm blanket that you can not let go.
But you should always know, it is here to stay.
