

FRIENDS

Friends are there and they care
They are hard to find and are rare
They are with you far and near
You can find them anywhere
You help them when they're in despair
You can lose them easily
They are just like you ordinarily
You have to take care of them carefully
Also you should be there for them emotionally
They will help you mentally
Friendship is a two-way thing
You help each other when you feel like screaming
They certainly won't leave you hanging
They will cheer you up when you're hurting
That is all this poem is ending
