

I sat Alone in my room..

Watching the world through my window

Listening to the rain patter on the tin roof

Listening to the trees singing in the breeze

Listening to the birds gossip under the shelter of the leaves

Watching the ducks dance in between drips

Watching the frogs jump from lily pad to lily pad

Watching the children jump over and into puddles

Bright red boots

Bright yellow coats

Bright blue hats

I run to the door

Throw on my bright green boots

I am now jumping in puddles

I jumped and laughed

I played and sang

I danced and smiled

I pranced joyfully among friends

Then the rain stopped

And my bright boots became dull

The ducks stopped dancing

And the trees stopped singing

The sun shone through the leaves

It shone light through my window

It was then that I realised I remained..

..sitting alone in my room